Quick Funding For Mnuchin And Kushner

Gulf Investments Came After Official Travel

By NATE KELLY and DAVID H. KRAUTER
Shortly before the 2020 election, Trump administration officials traveled to the Middle East. They were accompanied by two men who would later become major investors in the Trump Organization: Donald Trump Jr. and Eric Trump. The two men were seen in a number of locations in the Middle East, including Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, and Israel, during the trip. The trip was widely reported to be a "roadshow" for the Trump Organization, aimed at attracting investment from wealthy individuals in the region.

It was little more than talk, in some cases, and in others, the deal was struck. In some cases, the deal was struck before the trip. In other cases, the deal was struck after the trip. Mr. Kushner and Mr. Mnuchin brought along top aides of a hedge fund that Mr. Kushner had founded in 2017. The fund, called the Middle East Growth Fund, was set up to invest in the region. The fund's investments were widely reported to be a major source of income for Mr. Kushner and Mr. Mnuchin. The fund's investments were also widely reported to be a major source of income for the Trump Organization.

Mr. Kushner and Mr. Mnuchin were also widely reported to be major investors in the Trump Organization. They were reported to have invested tens of millions of dollars in the organization. Their investments were widely reported to be a major source of income for the organization.

A Bank Created for Haiti Funneled Wealth to France

This article is by Matt Auer, Contributor, and Nate Kohler, Staff Writer.
The bank, called the Banque de Haiti, was created in 2003. It was intended to be a bank for Haiti, but it quickly became a bank for France. The bank's assets were largely in France, and its profits were largely sent to France. The bank's creation was widely reported to be a major source of wealth for the French government.

A Russian Brigade Brought Torture and Death to a Corner of Ukraine

By CAROLITA GALL
BUCHA, Ukraine — When the soldiers of Russia's 6th Motorized Rifle Brigade arrived in Bucha in mid-February, they brought a new level of death and terror to the city. The brigade's soldiers were reported to have committed a series of atrocities, including the killing of civilians, the burning of homes, and the rape of women. The brigade's actions were widely reported to be a major source of horror for the people of Bucha.

Time and time again, stymied on gun control

Biden has played central role in pushing efforts in decade since Sandy Hook

By ASHLEY PARKER, TYLER FARRER, and COLBY TROVATZ
Gabrielle Giffords huddled with Vice President Joe Biden in a private office just off the Senate floor on an April Wednesday in 2012, watching the strange defeat of a bill to expand background checks to most gun sales.

Giffords — a former Democratic lawmaker who had been shot in the head in 2011 during an event in her Arizona district — was equal parts furious and devastated as she watched 49 of her former colleagues, including five Democratic senators, vote against the gun-control measure. She was also frustrated that the bill had been defeated so easily.

You don't get to forget her

Reina's sister was killed at Oxford High. She refuses to let the school move on.

By LEZZE JOHNSON
OXFORD, Miss. — She'd rarely left the house in the four months since the shooting, but on the first warm day of spring, 16-year-old Reina St. Juliana did her homework over her shoulder, and her parents and stepped out the front door.

It was 6:30 p.m. on a Monday in mid-March, and her friend Olivia Curtis, also 16, killed in her SUV in the long driveway. Reina got into the passenger seat and showed her lacrosse stick at her feet.

They began driving to Oxford High School, the place where Reina had lost so much. She was also frustrated that the bill had been defeated so easily. She was also frustrated that the bill had been defeated so easily. She was also frustrated that the bill had been defeated so easily.

A GOP gambit to stand up to Trump

Governors target 'Venetia Tour' Group backs Ga.'s Kemp, incumbents elsewhere

By ANNE LINDSEY, JOHN DAVIES, MICHAEL SCHREIER, and MATTHEW BRADEN
Republican governors banded together last month for a meeting at the desert Hilton resort in Phoenix in mid-November. They agreed to confront a new threat to their incumbency: former president Donald Trump was ramping up support for primary challenges as part of what one former governor called "a personal vendetta."

To protect incumbents up for reelection this year, the Republican Governors Association decided to spend millions of dollars in public relations.
