

Draft Abortion Ruling Signals Seismic Political Shift

Demographic administrations in Michigan and Wisconsin may seek to undo the old bans. West Virginia should have a 22-week ban. Alabama would most likely enforce a total ban passed in 2010 instead.

After 50 Years, News Leaves Both Sides Stunned, and Energized

This article is by Kate Zerkle, Elizabeth Drew and Ruth Krakauer. Opponents and supporters of abortion rights had expected the results that the Supreme Court would vote to overturn Roe v. Wade, but the leaked draft opinion was not what they were ready to see. Many Americans woke up on Monday night after he phoned it up with his lawyer's text about the leak. Searching online to confirm it, she found that it has guaranteed five decades could disappear within a matter of weeks. Cassie Wright, a 46-year-old Missouri-area grandmother of eight, says that she is being "somed."

Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak. The draft opinion was leaked to a reporter on Monday night. Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak. The draft opinion was leaked to a reporter on Monday night. Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak. The draft opinion was leaked to a reporter on Monday night.

With Trump's Nod, Vance Rallies To Win Senate Primary in Ohio

By MICHAEL GOLDWACHER and JAZMIN ULLMAN. CINCINNATI — J.D. Vance, one of the most energetic and ambitious young men in the 2022 primary season for the Senate in Ohio, was in a tight race with his Republican primary opponent, a local attorney, on Tuesday. Vance had been leading in the polls, but his opponent's campaign strategy was to focus on his record as a former Marine and his role in the Trump administration. Vance had been leading in the polls, but his opponent's campaign strategy was to focus on his record as a former Marine and his role in the Trump administration.

J.D. Vance in Cincinnati after his Republican primary victory.

National Edition

Upper Midwest: Credits and some members. Chilly north. Mid north. High on Lake Lake Michigan to the west and south. Rain southeast tonight, another day. Page B1.

Court Confirms a Leaked Document Is Authentic, but Says It Isn't Final

By PETER BAKER. WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court on Tuesday confirmed that a leaked draft ruling to overturn the landmark Roe v. Wade decision was authentic but not final, even as the disclosure triggered political upheaval with potentially crucial electoral and legislative consequences. While protesters gathered outside the court, chanting loudly enough for members of Congress to hear at the Capitol across the street, Democrats led by President Biden vowed to make abortion a leading issue in the upcoming election. Republicans accused Democrats of trying to hijack the issue to distract from the court's work. Chief Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak.

Extraordinary Breach Delivers Blow to the Court's Legitimacy

By ADAM LEPKIN. WASHINGTON — Senator Joe Manchin said when he challenged the leak of the draft ruling that requires Roe v. Wade to be overturned, he did not see the Supreme Court as "a political institution." But the leak of the draft opinion, which would overturn Roe v. Wade, has delivered a blow to the court's legitimacy. The draft opinion was leaked to a reporter on Monday night. Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak. The draft opinion was leaked to a reporter on Monday night.

Tears, Food and Sun After Weeks Underground

By MICHAEL SCHWARTZ and ZAPORIZHCHIA, Ukraine — Shura Babitskiy brought smiles and relief to his children and grandchildren on Tuesday morning. He had been underground for weeks, but now he was back on the surface. He had been underground for weeks, but now he was back on the surface. He had been underground for weeks, but now he was back on the surface.

Ama and her 6-month-old son with a friend after reaching Zaporizhzhia, Ukraine, on Tuesday.

Roberts directs investigation into leaked draft

Democrats press ACA insurers on free birth control

By PETER BAKER. WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court on Tuesday confirmed that a leaked draft ruling to overturn the landmark Roe v. Wade decision was authentic but not final, even as the disclosure triggered political upheaval with potentially crucial electoral and legislative consequences. While protesters gathered outside the court, chanting loudly enough for members of Congress to hear at the Capitol across the street, Democrats led by President Biden vowed to make abortion a leading issue in the upcoming election. Republicans accused Democrats of trying to hijack the issue to distract from the court's work. Chief Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak.

Clinics, critics race to prepare for new reality

By ADAM LEPKIN. WASHINGTON — Justice Sonia Sotomayor said when she challenged the leak of the draft ruling that requires Roe v. Wade to be overturned, she did not see the Supreme Court as "a political institution." But the leak of the draft opinion, which would overturn Roe v. Wade, has delivered a blow to the court's legitimacy. The draft opinion was leaked to a reporter on Monday night. Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak.

An architect of TSA, advocate for civil rights

By PETER WOODRUFF. WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court on Tuesday confirmed that a leaked draft ruling to overturn the landmark Roe v. Wade decision was authentic but not final, even as the disclosure triggered political upheaval with potentially crucial electoral and legislative consequences. While protesters gathered outside the court, chanting loudly enough for members of Congress to hear at the Capitol across the street, Democrats led by President Biden vowed to make abortion a leading issue in the upcoming election. Republicans accused Democrats of trying to hijack the issue to distract from the court's work. Chief Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak.

Ms. Mineta, who led the TSA, is seen here in 2001.

Roberts directs investigation into leaked draft

Democrats press ACA insurers on free birth control

By PETER BAKER. WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court on Tuesday confirmed that a leaked draft ruling to overturn the landmark Roe v. Wade decision was authentic but not final, even as the disclosure triggered political upheaval with potentially crucial electoral and legislative consequences. While protesters gathered outside the court, chanting loudly enough for members of Congress to hear at the Capitol across the street, Democrats led by President Biden vowed to make abortion a leading issue in the upcoming election. Republicans accused Democrats of trying to hijack the issue to distract from the court's work. Chief Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak.

Clinics, critics race to prepare for new reality

By ADAM LEPKIN. WASHINGTON — Justice Sonia Sotomayor said when she challenged the leak of the draft ruling that requires Roe v. Wade to be overturned, she did not see the Supreme Court as "a political institution." But the leak of the draft opinion, which would overturn Roe v. Wade, has delivered a blow to the court's legitimacy. The draft opinion was leaked to a reporter on Monday night. Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak.

A Kremlin gathering of tycoons, most with wealth abroad

By PETER WOODRUFF. WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court on Tuesday confirmed that a leaked draft ruling to overturn the landmark Roe v. Wade decision was authentic but not final, even as the disclosure triggered political upheaval with potentially crucial electoral and legislative consequences. While protesters gathered outside the court, chanting loudly enough for members of Congress to hear at the Capitol across the street, Democrats led by President Biden vowed to make abortion a leading issue in the upcoming election. Republicans accused Democrats of trying to hijack the issue to distract from the court's work. Chief Justice John G. Roberts Jr. ordered an investigation into the leak.

Mr. Putin is seen here in 2013.